

Florida Department of Agriculture & Consumer Services
Charles H. Bronson, Commissioner
Division of Plant Industry
P.O. Box 147100, Gainesville, FL 32614-7100

Florida Wildflowers Coloring Book

dan 2011

White Top Pitcher Plant

An endangered species found in bogs and swamps in the Panhandle from Liberty and Franklin counties westward.

Worm Vine Orchid

Grows in the mangroves of the most tropical counties.

Its beautiful, aromatic flowers open at night or early morning during mosquito season.

dan
zu

Semaphore Cactus

Was thought eliminated from Florida in 1979; however, a small patch has been found on a single Florida Key.

Indian Blanket or Blanket Flower

Native to the western states, now widely established in Florida where blooms appear over a long period of spring through summer.

dan
2011

Drumheads or Milkwort

Found in flatwoods, bogs and roadside ditches throughout most of Florida, blooms from late spring to fall.

dan
2011

Fringed Pink

An endangered species found in Florida only around Chattahoochee where it blooms
during April in hammocks and bluffs.

Pine Lily

A short herb of wet pinelands and roadsides. It grows from a small bulb, with grass-like leaves and a single flower atop the 1-2 foot stem.

dan
2011

St. John's Wort

Blooms in summer and fall in bogs, wet flatwoods and roadside depressions.

Coral Bean

Found only in coastal areas of southern Florida, but grows inland in parts of the state farther north. Hummingbirds visit the flowers for nectar.

Roadside Phlox

A native of Texas and nearby states, it is now widely established in Florida and is one of our most abundant spring flowers. It grows in many colors and is prominent along roadsides.

Celestial Lily

Is an endangered plant which grows only in pine flatwoods in eastern peninsular Florida. It blooms in the fall, and its flowers do not open until late afternoon.

Florida Anise-Tree

Is a small tree found in creek swamps and bluffs of the Panhandle.

It blooms during March and April.

dan 2011

